

25 Years In Motion Picture Business

GEO. N. OLSON MAKES PHENOMINAL SUCCESS OF THEATRE

Geo. N. Olson, manager of the Rialto Theatre here, has seen his efforts grow into a tremendous success. The Rialto today is one of the outstanding motion picture theatres in Michigan. It stands among its peers and it never gets behind in anything in motion pictures, and is always right up on the latest improvements just as fast as new improvements come out. The Rialto is a pride to its owners and equally so among the people of Grayling and the vast area from which it derives its patronage from outside of Grayling. Theatre lovers are fortunate in having this fine motion picture house here.

Mr. Olson began his theatre career May 22nd, 1915 when he bought the Grayling Opera house from James W. Overton. It is interesting to recall that the opening play was a two-reel serial entitled "20,000,000 Mystery." The admission price was 10c. Music for the opening performance was provided by Clark's orchestra, with Ed. Clark violinist and director; Leelah Olson, piano; F. J. McClain, Sr., trombone; Wm. Cody, cornet; Wm. Heric, clarinet; E. J. Olson, saxophone; Leo Schram, saxophone; Jess Sales, bass, and Frank Sales, drums.

The equipment during those first days consisted of one Powers, hand-driven 6B projector. A few years later two Powers projectors, motor driven, were installed, making continuous pictures.

In the year 1927 sound equipment was installed, and in 1929 the theatre was completely remodelled and renamed the "Rialto Theatre". All these years the theatre occupied the lower floor of the Masonic Temple, a frame structure.

On the Saturday night before Easter in 1930 the entire building was destroyed by fire. That meant build anew. Accordingly Mr. Olson purchased part of the lot occupied by the Masonic Temple; engaged a theatre building architect and proceeded at once with the construction of a modern motion picture building. It is a beautiful structure, built of brick and is 40 x 120 feet in size, and is constructed on the very latest plans known to theatre architecture. It has a seating capacity of 536. This new edifice was opened to the public in August of the same year (1930). It was equipped with the new Simplex projector and the latest RCA sound apparatus and is air conditioned.

Associated with Mr. Olson in 1925, was his brother W. James Olson. Since this co-ownership several more theatres have been acquired. The first was at West Branch, called the Mid-State; others are the Ideal Theatre at Clare; the Gaylord at Gaylord; and one at Houghton Lake, (now under construction). This is located about midway between Prudenville and Houghton Lake village.

Special Anniversary Week Program

Mr. Olson says that on the week of May 25th the Rialto will present special anniversary programs by presenting some of the most outstanding motion picture features that can be secured, and says he hopes that everyone will find it possible to attend every change during that week.

We are sure the people of Grayling are with the Avalanche in extending sincere greetings and congratulations. This has been a fine achievement and George and Jim deserve a lot of credit for their enterprise and for the success they have made.

CCC Truck Overtakes Sending 20 to Hospital

THREE SERIOUSLY INJURED. 10 STILL IN HOSPITAL.

A truck from CCC Camp Kalkaska went into a ditch on the road about a mile and a half west of Kalkaska Saturday night, when the truck struck loose gravel, causing it to roll completely over and landing on its wheels, injuring 20 enrollees. This occurred at about 6:30 p. m.

The injured were given first aid and then brought to Grayling Mercy hospital in CCC and private ambulances and private cars.

The most critically injured were Robert Merren, 17, of Grand Rapids, who had a compound skull fracture. Richard Sarraut, 17, of Cheboygan, suffering from back and chest injuries. Herman Hassefort, 17, suffering back injuries and shock. All are reported resting very well.

In addition to Merren, Sarraut and Hassefort, those injured are:

Thomas Smith, 18, of Washington, broken wrist; Ernest Parsons, 19, of Detroit, shoulder injury; James Dowd, 17, of Muskegon Heights, fractured jaw and finger; Jerry Laszewski, 19, of Grand Rapids, hip and spine injury; Norman Alexander, 17, of Muskegon Heights, fractured arm and jaw; Albert Percy, 18, of Cheboygan, neck injury; Louis Martin, 17, of Muskegon, shoulder injury; Joseph Arcei, 18, of Detroit, back injury; Alfred Dunbar, of Rogers City, hip injury; Daniel Nowicki, 17, of Presque Isle, head injury; Jack Mason, 18, of Ionia, fractured wrist; Donald Peacock, 19, of Grand Rapids, back injury; and Paul Gardocki, 18, of Williamsburg, head injury.

The driver of the CCC truck, Edward Chalupczek, 19, of Posen, and six other enrollees riding in the truck, escaped injury.

According to Capt. Lee Johnson, camp commander, and Capt. G. H. Reynolds, area officer, who are in charge of an investigation of the accident, the truck struck loose gravel in the road, and it rolled completely over and landed back on its wheels. The first load of injured entered the hospital about 8 p. m. and continued to arrive until after nine o'clock, taxing hospital facilities to the utmost.

Witnesses reported the truck was not travelling over 25 miles per hour when the accident occurred. The boys were enroute to Traverse City for a recreational period.

Grayling Woman Dies In Flint

Mrs. Hattie E. Bennett, age 64 years, passed away at Hurley hospital in Flint, Sunday night at 11:00 o'clock. She was taken with a heart attack that afternoon at 4:00 o'clock, at the home of her son Lyle, where she had been visiting for the past month. Mrs. Bennett had been in very poor health for about a year and had gone to Flint for a rest and to be near her children. Sunday a family reunion was being held at the Lyle Bennett home and a photograph of the group was about to be taken, when Mrs. Bennett suffered the attack.

Hattie E. Lewis was born May 3, 1876 on a farm in Ingham county and when she was still a small child, her parents the late Mr. and Mrs. John A. Lewis, homesteaded north of Cheney. Through her long residence in Grayling Mrs. Bennett had gained a large circle of friends and was known as a kind and charitable woman. She was of very jolly disposition and always seemed to look on the bright side of life and make those around her happy. She will be missed from the family circle and among her many Grayling friends.

Chosen For Wolverine Boys' State

Theodore Decknow, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Decknow and Charles (Chuck) McNamara, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. McNamara, are the lucky boys to be chosen to represent Grayling at the "Mythical 49th State" to be held at Michigan State College, Lansing, June 20 to June 28th. Theon will represent Grayling American Legion Post 106 and "Chuck" the Grayling Kiwanis Club. The "Wolverine Boys' State" is sponsored by the American Legion, Department of Michigan, and each Post is allowed a certain quota of boys, who are privileged to attend.

These boys' appointment came upon recommendation of Supt. Gerald L. Poor and his advisers. Entrance fees have already been forwarded to the officials of Wolverine Boys' State.

The objective in this "Wolverine Boys' State" is to put into practice the theories of American government, as taught in the classrooms, thru the actual control of a city.

This week's Kiwanis bulletin said: "Wolverine Boys' State is not a program designed for underprivileged boys. It is a program for the future citizens of America to develop responsibility of leadership, to prove advantages of citizenship." This is a special privilege to come to any young man and we're sure Chuck and Theon will make the most of it.

It was a happy group of seniors members of the class of 1940, that met at the school early Friday morning to start on their skip day trip to the Tahquamenon Falls. It was raining hard at the time they left but that didn't dampen the spirits of the group as they were out for a good time. The Betty B. barge was waiting for them after their trip to the river on the Toonerville Trolley. The class had the barge all to themselves and immensely enjoyed the three-hour trip down the river despite the drizzling rain. To the delight of the group the rain stopped just as they reached the falls.

As the restaurant on the boat hasn't been opened yet, the seniors carried their own lunch. It was a happy but tired crowd that returned to Grayling late that night, happy in the memories of their trip into the wilds of the Upper Peninsula to the famous Tahquamenon Falls, second largest to the Niagara. We are sure that this last trip together as a class with Supt. G. L. Poor and Cecil Roberts, as chaperons, will always remain in their memories.

Weiss Funeral Held Saturday

Funeral services for William J. Weiss were held Saturday afternoon at the A. J. Sorenson Funeral Home. Mr. Weiss died at his home Wednesday forenoon, following a long illness. Rev. Fr. James Mooney officiated at the service and Mrs. June Underwood and Mrs. Adolph Peterson beautifully sang "Mother Dear, O Pray for Me" and "Nearer My God to Thee," the former playing the accompaniment. Interment was in Elmwood cemetery, the following acting as pallbearers: Harila Rasmussen, Arnold Barrows, Carl Nielson, Albert Renkopf, Adolph Peterson, and Earl Dawson. The beautiful profusion of flowers and other tokens of sympathy bespoke the esteem in which the deceased was held.

Mr. Weiss was born in Monroe, Mich. July 4, 1876 and was one of a family of 13 children. When he grew to manhood he left Monroe for Saginaw where on January 22, 1900 he was united in marriage to Emma Meyer. To the union eleven children were born, eight of whom survive. Emma, William, and Roy having passed away previously. The family resided in Saginaw until 1914 when they moved to Riverview on the Manistee river. Mr. Weiss owned and operated a saw mill there for years, and much of the lumber of that section found its way through this mill. Thirteen years ago the family came to Grayling and resided for a time in the old Insley home until they purchased their present home on Elm street. After coming here Mr. Weiss was employed in the A. & P. market, and later in the Burrows Market. For a time he and his son James operated the Gulf Gas station on U. S. 27, they giving up the business owing to Mr. Weiss' ill health last fall. In recent years he had spent much of the summer and fall seasons at his cabin at Riverview, where he acted as guide for sportsmen, and he had a wide acquaintance with tourists who came to that vicinity. Mr. Weiss was always friendly and cheerful, and never was heard to complain of his ills.

Surviving besides his widow are five daughters and three sons. Mrs. Clara Stone, Mrs. Otto Eden, both of Baltimore, Md.; George Weiss stationed with the U. S. Marines at Quantico, Va.; Harry of Gaylord; James, Norbert, Ann and Evelyn at home. Also there are four grandchildren and three brothers and six sisters, George F. Weiss, Saginaw; Harry Weiss, Edward Weiss, Mrs. Fred Kressbach, Mrs. Albert Heck, Mrs. Oliver Eldridge, and Mrs. F. J. MacDonald, the latter two who are twins, and all of Monroe; Mrs. C. H. Wallinger, Beaver Dam, Va.; Mrs. Henry Meyer, Detroit. All have the sympathy of many Grayling friends.

Those from out of the city in attendance at the funeral were Mrs. Clara Stone and Mr. and Mrs. Otto Eden and children of Baltimore; George Weiss, Quantico, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Meyer, Mrs. Fred Ludwig, Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Eldridge, Mr. and Mrs. F. G. MacDonald, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Weiss, Monroe; George F. Weiss, Clyde Compau, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Meyers and son, Saginaw; Mrs. Wilbur Nickless, Gladwin.

Wins Readers Digest Annual Award

The Reader's Digest annual award for scholastic achievement has been won in Crawford county by Miss Mary Jane Joseph, valedictorian of the class of 1940 of Grayling High school and by James H. Cram, valedictorian of his class of Frederic High school. Each year the Reader's Digest presents this award to young men and women throughout the country who, by successful records in school work, give promise of attaining leadership in their communities. Miss Mary Jane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Joseph of Grayling, and Mr. Cram, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert E. Cram of Frederic will receive engraved certificates of award upon graduation.

Principals of preparatory and high schools are increasingly urging their students to read the most significant articles from current magazines, in the belief that contact with the important writing and thinking of our day is essential to education, both before and after graduation. As one principal said in a letter to the Reader's Digest: "Your award and your magazine keep our best students in the mental vanguard through the difficult transition from school to society at large."

FORMER GRAYLING LADY PASSES AWAY IN DETROIT

Mrs. Johanne Hansen, a former estimable resident of Grayling for a long number of years passed away at the home of her daughter Mrs. Marie Klatt, in Detroit Saturday at the ripe age of 91 years.

Johanne Johansen was born in Lolland, Denmark, October 10, 1849 and in 1869 was united in marriage to Jens Peter Hansen. 12 children were born to them and Mr. Hansen died in 1888 and three years later Mrs. Hansen with six of her children, came to America to make their home. The latter all survive together with one daughter Mrs. Mary Jorgenson who still resides in Denmark.

Surviving besides Mrs. Jorgenson and Mrs. Klatt, are Mrs. Ingeborg Kriepke, Mrs. Johanne Sorenson, Thorwald, Svend, all of Detroit and Kai Hansen of Indianapolis, Ind. And there are also ten grandchildren and 10 great grandchildren.

The Hansen family left Grayling several years ago, but they keep in close touch with many of their old friends here, and there are many who remember this fine family.

Zauel's Tavern Opening May 28th

The new Zauel's Tavern at the junction of highways M-76 and M-93, one mile east of Grayling, is just about finished and Mr. Zauel says they will open for business on the evening of May 28th.

Workmen are still busy putting the finishing touches on the building, and are making every effort to have it in readiness for the opening evening. Even in its unfinished condition it is apparent that it is going to be a very elaborate affair. It is built of wood; has plastic floor; a huge stone fireplace; is hot-air heated, and has modern plumbing throughout. A new, modern bar is being set up today and will be ready for the opening.

Fixtures for the place are still in crates, but it looks as tho' that here too there is nothing lacking. More complete details concerning "Zauel's" tavern will be published in our next issue.

The public is invited to attend the opening night, when the "Swingettes," a six-piece girls orchestra will provide music. This promises to be the most elaborate tavern in Northern Michigan.

Non-partisan News Letter

LANSING—A smaller crop of fruit is in prospect for Michigan.

That news from Verne H. Church, statistician in charge of the Michigan cooperative crop reporting service, together with a warning that rainfall has been only 60 to 70 per cent of normal over the past 10 months, has created an air of uncertainty about Michigan agriculture income for 1940.

Only 88,000 acres of the 152,000 acres sown to rye last fall are expected to be harvested for grain—the smallest rye crop for the state in more than 50 years.

"Prospects for hay and pasture were not as good on May 1 as in other recent years," stated Church. "Not only has growth been retarded by cold weather but rains have been insufficient in many sections. Furthermore, there is a considerable deficiency in subsoil moisture in many counties in southern Michigan."

As for fruit outlook, he says: "Fruit growers are looking for a somewhat smaller crop of fruits this year, a usual sequency in years following a large production such as that of 1939. Cold weather has held back the opening of the fruit buds; and blooming which has just begun, is a week or ten days later than in normal seasons. The recent cold weather was not severe enough to cause any damage apparently to buds."

"Low temperatures in January thinned peach buds in some sections but prospects are favorable for a fairly good crop in all districts except an area in southern Michigan extending from the eastern part of Berrien county eastward and northward to the southern part of Ingham county. In that area, temperatures of 15 to 18 degrees below zero occurred which is a little frigid for peach buds ordinarily to withstand."

Affect of War

lege, points out that with the exception of bean and pork products, prices of agricultural commodities are about the same as one year ago before war was declared. So far, the new European conflict has not put millions into the American farmers' pocketbooks, as optimistic forecasters loudly proclaimed last September.

"The prices of beans and pork products have increased in recent months," said Dean Anthony, "and there is some basis for speculation that Canada is buying supplies here for shipment overseas now that England has been shut off from Denmark as a leading source of butter, pork and lard."

"The hog people believe that pork prices will continue strong due to Canadian demands. You will recall that prices jumped after declaration of war last September only to slump again in December, January and February. Pork prices are up again, however. Certainly if the war continues another year the result will be an increasing demand for American war munitions which in turn will help to stimulate domestic consumption of food and will tend to raise food prices."

Oats, Rye, Beet Sugar

While the deficiency in rainfall remains a threat to 1940 crop yields, it has put the ground in fine condition for early spring plowing.

Oats and rye conditions are miserably poor, but winter wheat looks fairly good and the wheat acreage abandoned due to winter injury is estimated at only 12,000 acres which is the smallest loss in many years. A yield of 20.5 bushels per acre is indicated which compared with 21.0 bushels per acre obtained last year.

Beet sugar people report that the war is not expected to affect sugar prices in this country. At present a large surplus of sugar stocks remain on hand. Indirectly through improved industrial conditions the sugar industry may benefit through better prices, but this will be a long-range development, certainly not in the present picture for 1940.

Canned fruits rely on domestic consumption largely, while dried fruits have been exported heavily. Consequently, little change is anticipated in Michigan on fruit prices with regard to the war. California, on the other hand, may suffer considerably from loss of export.

Ford Rotunda Open Sundays

Beginning last Sunday, the Ford Rotunda, the magnet which attracts hundreds of thousands of visitors to Dearborn each year, will be thrown open to the public on Sunday for the summer months, it was announced. The opening hours will be 1:30 to 9:30 p. m.

The new arrangement will give tourists and other visitors an opportunity to visit the Rotunda and view its attractions on the only day when the average family has leisure for sightseeing, it was pointed out. It also will permit those who wish to hear the broadcasts of the new Ford Summer Hour to listen over loudspeakers in the Rotunda, just outside the theater where the broadcasts originate.

The new program starts at 3 p. m. EST, replacing the Ford Sunday Evening Hour for the summer. Owing to the limited seating capacity of the theater, the visible audience of the Ford Summer Hour program this season will be composed of Ford employees from the Dearborn area.

Since its opening in 1936 the Ford Rotunda has proved itself one of the nation's outstanding tourist attractions, some 3,312,907 persons having passed through its doors. This is an average of one person for every 20 seconds that the building has been open, and the registration list includes names from every state in the Union and from practically every civilized nation in the world.

Attendance for the first four months of 1940 totalled approximately 1,399,967 persons, a gain of 32,917 over the same period last year.

All tours through the 1200-acre Rouge plant start at the Rotunda, the company providing a fleet of glass-topped buses to carry visitors to various points in the near-by plant while a corps of more than 60 specially trained guides are on hand to explain the many interesting activities.

In addition to serving as the gateway to the Rouge plant, and housing the theater from which the Ford Summer Hour is broadcast, the Rotunda itself holds many attractions which add to the enjoyment and interest of a visit. On week days an entertaining motion picture program is to be seen in the theater. A 20-foot-high revolving globe of the world, great photographic murals of scenes in the Rouge plant, moving dioramas, and animated maps are among the other attractions that bring thousands of visitors to the Rotunda.

At night, the Rotunda is especially spectacular because of the ever-changing colored floodlighting of its exterior and the brilliant illumination of its interior. All totaled, there are 7,820 lamps consuming 1,279,600 watts used in producing the brilliant lighting effects.

Outside in the summer-time visitors ride in Ford, Mercury and Lincoln-Zephyr cars over roads winding round the Rotunda grounds, which were built to duplicate sections of historic highways of the world. The roads were reopened May 20, and cars will continue to carry visitors over them until late September.

New Cotton Use

A new market for cotton fabric and a means of economy for meat packers has been created by a method of wrapping skinned meats in muslin for shipment, which entails use of a special salt solution. THE FORD WAY OF DOING BUSINESS

The Ford Motor Company was founded by a working-man for working-men. Its present officers began as employees of the Company. It was the first company to pay a minimum wage, beginning in 1914, at the then astounding figure of $5 a day. That was double the prevailing wage of the time. The Ford minimum is now $6 a day for all employees engaged in production work. And from that, the wages rise to $10.80 a day, with the average wage $7.25, exclusive of salaried employees.

The Ford Motor Company was the first large company to establish the 8-hour day—also in 1914. And the 40-hour week was inaugurated by the Ford Motor Company in 1926, years before any such laws existed.

The Ford Motor Company employs men without regard to race, creed or color. It is common knowledge that working conditions in the Ford shops are the best that science and constant care can make them. A square deal, a just wage and stabilized employment for a large proportion of our employees—and as fully stabilized for all as conditions will permit—enable our men to retain their personal independence.

In consequence of these policies the Ford Motor Company has one of the finest bodies of employees in the world. The larger proportion are mature men of long service with the Company—sober, decent family men. Hundreds of them have been with the Company for more than 25 years—thousands for more than 15 years. Their health record, home ownership and citizenship records are good.

All this is reflected in Ford products, whether cars, trucks or tractors. The work is honestly done. Materials are the best that can be made or procured. Less profit to the Company and more value to the customer is known throughout the motoring world as "Ford's way of doing business."

Ford Motor Company was the first to make a motor car within the means of the average family—quitting the manufacture of what was then the largest selling model in the world to do so. Its chosen field in all the 30 years since that time has been the average American family—for which it has consistently provided car facilities which formerly only the wealthy could buy.

It is the policy of the Ford Motor Company to share the benefits of advanced methods and management with workers and public alike. Increased wages and employment over a period of many years have resulted in

A 300 per cent increase in the built-in value of the Ford car and a 75 per cent reduction in its price.

Henry Ford and Edsel Ford keep daily personal touch with all phases of Ford manufacture. In a conference with his staff, Henry Ford often says: "Go ahead—I'll sit here and represent the public."

The Old BACKWOODS PHILOSOPHER Says:

We do a lot uv patten' ourselves on th' back when it comes to braggin' about th' progress we've made since John Hancock signed his name so King George could read it without his specs. an' specially since 'th time Abe Lincoln saved th' Union.

Well, I'll have t' admit we've made some progress. Fer instance, we're able t' make things so darn fast that a lot uv us ain't able t' buy 'em. We're able t' scout about th' briny depths in submarines, even if some uv us don't come up. We've nearly conquered th' air; all we need now is non-combustible gasoline an' landin' cushions fer safety. Surface ships is fairly safe an' take us around at a purty good rate, if we can afford passage. Automobiles git there quick, even if they do kill off a good many that medical science has learnt t' save from disease. Movies—not so bad. Radio tops th' list, fer thank goodness we can't git killed in th' maze uv long an' short wave transmissions; we suffer nuthin' worse than bein' chloroformed, specially durin' political campaigns.

Yes, we've made some progress. Th' powered printin' press has helped a lot, even if propaganda is sometimes spread so thick that it's a hard job t' sort out th' facts.

But leavin' all jokin' aside, we have, even if it has been in a sort uv hit an' miss fashion, been able t' outstrip th' rest uv th' world in real material development an' th' spread uv general information. Which ain't sayin', however, that we couldn't have done better, fer somewhere along th' line ar progress seems t' sort uv slowed down. Not in technology, but in learnin' t' control an' handle th' economic forces we've created. In other words, th' science uv livin' seems t' ve gotten down a blind alley t' such an extent that we're victimized instead uv bettered by many developments that should be forces fer good.

Yes, we're still pioneers, ev'ry one uv us. Almost as much as my great-great-granddaddy afore th' Revolution, hauled his family over th' mountains from th' Potomac t' th' Ohio valley in an ox-cart. Great-great-granddaddy virgin land an' farmed, us t' manage an' direct ar discoveries so that they become ar slaves instead uv ar masters. I'll we learn t' do that we're powder an' salt. In time he had cattle, sheep, hogs, an' poultry. Great-great-granddaddy carded wool an' spun th' yarn she made into th' family's clothes. They had their own meat, wild an' tame. Great-great-granddaddy had his own leather an' was his own blacksmith. He hunted, fished an' traded with th' Indians. His land yielded vegetables, grain, fruit an' fuel. An', believe it or not, his family never suffered from overproduction or underconsumption!

Th' United States uv America is one big farm. We all live on it. Some uv us till th' soil. Some raise cattle, sheep, hogs an' poultry. Some dig in th' ground fer minerals. Some make iron an' steel. Some do th' nation's buildin' work. Some make tools, implements an' vehicles, an' some haul th' stuff t' where it's needed, er where at least it might be sold. Some uv us doctor th' sick while others spend their time pryin' into th' sciences. Others teach an' contribute t' ar culture an' well-bein'. An' some spend their time fingerin' how t' live off th' fat uv th' land by workin' them who work.

Now, outside uv th' last mentioned, there ain't much difference between this big farm uv ours an' th' one great-great-granddaddy run except fer size an' modern gadgets an' exceptin' that th' more we produce th' poorer a lot uv us git. Which would be funny if it didn't reflect so much against ar intelligence an' cause so much misery. Some balmy critters, called economists say it's all b'cause we need t' do over ar system uv money an' credit. Great-great-granddaddy didn't need either. Others say it's b'cause ar foreign market has been peterin' out. I th' line ar progress seems t' sort uv slowed down. Not in technology, but in learnin' t' control an' handle th' economic forces we've created. In other words, th' science uv livin' seems t' ve gotten down a blind alley t' such an extent that we're victimized instead uv bettered by many developments that should be forces fer good.

Now don't think I'm argyin' that we should return t' all th' conditions great-great-granddaddy lived under. We don't need t' return t' a thing except sound

DEEP-BREATHING EXERCISES DO NOT GIVE YOU MORE OXYGEN

The idea that deep breathing will increase the amount of oxygen one takes into his system has been exploded by Prof. Jay B. Nash, of New York University, in his book, "Teachable Moments, A New Approach to Health." He says: "Deep breathing comes automatically with increased muscular activity. Any one who attempts deep breathing exercises when there is no particular need for them subjects himself to dizziness and to actual fainting." Those of us who have tried to start a fire by blowing on it know that this is quite true.
